... that the perpetrators of the attack should be looked for on this side. There was a hard core within the armed forces, with CDR tendencies. It would be this hard core that would have armed the "Interhahamwe" and already caused massacres in the past.

Personally, I would not be surprised if General Nsabimana, the former Colonel Serubuga (retired), Colonel Baransalitse and Colonel Bagasora were implicated as backers in this attack. Furthermore, I have heard it said that after the events Col. E.R. Serubuga took his office back...

All these people are, as far as I am aware, associated with the CDR party.

With regard to the murder of our 10 paras, I do not know anything more than what was said in the press. I did not hear any of their radio messages.

On the subject of RTLM, I listened to this station quite regularly. This station primarily developed an anti-Belgian feeling. Basically Belgians were profiteers and neo-colonialist. They were not needed in Rwanda, they must go. The announcer also encouraged Rwandans to go and steal from Belgians because they had money.

Personally, I only found out the name of the Belgian announcer from RTLM after the Presidential attack. I never met him. Two or three days after the attack everyone in Kigali knew that it was Georges Ruggiu.

As far as I am aware the FAR did not have Ground-Air missiles.

With regard to individual arms, I cannot give you much information given my position. I know that there were kalaschnikovs, FAL, R 4, G7, MAG and FALCOS.

I would like to add that since the war in 1990 lots of arms, munitions and grenades were found in Kigali. These objects were resold very cheaply.

I have nothing else to say.
